COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF

1. In this case, plaintiff CafePress.com, Inc. ("CafePress") seeks protection against a threat of trademark litigation by defendant Republican National Committee ("RNC"), which seeks to prevent supporters and opponents of the Republican Party from selling t-shirts, stickers, and other items that display a variety of expressive designs. Users of CafePress have created designs that praise Republicans, the Republican Party and Republican candidates, as well as attack

 CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIF.
 LOS ANGELES

1 them, using both the acronym "GOP" and an elephant as symbols of the Republican
2 Party or of Republican principles more generally. The RNC has registered
3 trademarks in the acronym "GOP" as well as in a design of an elephant with three
4 stars across its side. The RNC has warned CafePress that it is infringing RNC's
5 trademarks by allowing its users to publish and sell t-shirts and other items bearing 6 designs that express opinions about the Republican Party through the use of the 7 acronym "GOP" and through a variety of elephant designs, and has threatened to 8 sue for treble damages. Because the acronym "GOP" and the depiction of an 9 elephant are generic ways to identify Republican candidates and principles, because 10 the challenged designs make fair use of the RNC's trademarks, and because the 11 First Amendment protects the right of all citizens to express their views about 12 Republican candidates and principles through the use of that acronym and symbol,
13 the Court should enter a judgment declaring that CafePress does not violate RNC's 14 trademark rights by printing t-shirts and other materials bearing those designs and 15 by allowing its users to sell such items through its website.

16 17 JURISDICTION

18 2. This action arises under the laws of the United States. This Court has 19 subject matter jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1121 and 28
20 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1337, and 1338.

21 3. The RNC operates its commercially interactive website
22 <www.rnc.org> which allows individuals to make donations, purchase products, 23 and enroll in political education programs offered by RNC. On information and 24 belief, RNC has a reasonable expectation that RNC's goods and services are to be 25 purchased and used by California residents in this District.

26 4. Upon information and belief, RNC conducts business within the State
27 of California, specifically in this District, and has a reasonable expectation of being 28 sued in California, affording this Court personal jurisdiction over RNC.

5. RNC directed threats of litigation over the trademark claims on which CafePress seeks a declaratory judgment to CafePress in California.

6. Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) in this case because, on information and belief, RNC is subject to personal jurisdiction in this District and/or a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred in this District.

PARTIES

7. CafePress is a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business in San Mateo, California.

8. On information and belief, RNC is an unincorporated political association with a place of business in Washington, District of Columbia.

FACTS

A. CafePress' Business

9. CafePress is a privately owned company based in San Mateo, California. It is an internet service provider offering an automated service that allows its users, individuals and businesses, to set up virtual online shops and feature and offer for sale their products in a virtual online marketplace. The shops created by its users and the virtual online marketplace are hosted by CafePress.

10. CafePress provides a venue and capabilities for individuals, organizations and businesses to create, buy and sell customized merchandise online using the company's unique print-on-demand and e-commerce services. Currently, CafePress has over 6 million users who have created more than 150 million products on more than 90 customizable items ranging from apparel, yard signs, stickers, buttons, bags, prints, posters, cards, home and office accessories to music and data CDs and books. In a nutshell, CafePress provides blank merchandise that

1 its users customize with their own images, which are then sold to members of the 2 public who want to communicate whatever message those images express.

3 11. For example, a user can upload his digital image and create a sticker or 4 t-shirt with the image displayed as artwork on the sticker or t-shirt. The user can
5 then purchase the sticker or t-shirt he created for himself or offer the sticker or t-
6 shirts for sale to others through his online store, hosted by CafePress. Although the 7 stickers and t-shirts are visible as products within the user's online store and the 8 CafePress marketplace, there is no physical inventory of the specific customized
9 product; it is only created once an order has been placed for it. Once the order for 10 the specific product has been placed, CafePress prints the digital image onto the 11 blank products (e.g. the sticker or t-shirt) and ships the product to the user's
12 customer. CafePress provides a wide range of blank products (buttons, yard signs, 13 mugs, etc.) that users can customize with digital images.

14 B. RNC and Its Threatened Lawsuit

15 12. Many users of CafePress have opinions about the Republican Party,
16 and about its candidates and principles, and have created thousands of different
17 designs to express varying opinions about the Republican Party, Republican
18 candidates, and Republican principles.

19 13. In order to express their views about the Republican Party, some 20 CafePress users employ an elephant design or the acronym "GOP", which stands
21 for the Grand Old Party. The term "Grand Old Party" has been in common usage
22 since approximately 1876 to refer to groupings of Republicans, and the 23 abbreviation "GOP" dates back to approximately 1884. The symbol of the elephant 24 has been commonly used to refer to Republican principles, groupings of 25 Republicans, and Republican candidates and office holders since Thomas Nast first 26 portrayed Republicans as an elephant in a political cartoon in 1874.

14. Some CafePress users have expressed general support for the Republican Party or Republican principles by using the symbol of an elephant with three stars across its side entirely or largely by itself, as in the following examples:

15. Some CafePress users have expressed support for Republican candidates by combining the symbol of an elephant with the name of a Republican candidate, as in the following examples:

16. Some CafePress users have expressed support for the Republican Party or Republican principles by combining the symbol of an elephant and/or the acronym "GOP" with other words or other images, as in the following examples:

17. Some CafePress users have combined the symbol of an elephant with the name of a Democratic candidate or a characteristic associated with Democrats, either to express support of or scorn for Democrats, as in the following examples:

1 18. Some CafePress users have expressed disdain for Republicans or the
2 Republican Party by combining the symbol of an elephant and/or the acronym
3 "GOP" with other words and images, as in the following examples:

9 19. Since 1997, RNC has had a registered trademark in the acronym
10 "GOP", and since 1995, it has had a registered trademark in an image of an 11 elephant in red, white and blue with three stars across the top.

12 20. On February 11, 2008, RNC, through its Chief Counsel, Sean
13 Cairncross, sent a cease and desist letter to CafePress, identifying RNC as the 14 owner of trademark registrations in the acronym "GOP" and the name "Grand Old
15 Party, as well as the "Official Elephant Logo," and attaching a list of 51 locations
16 on the CafePress website where allegedly infringing uses of these marks were 17 located. Exhibit A. These locations included each of the designs identified in 18 paragraphs 14 through 18, as well as other similar designs. Each of the allegedly 19 offending designs, excerpted from the website locations identified in the attachment
20 to Exhibit A, is included in Exhibit B. Mr. Cairncross concluded his letter by 21 inviting CafePress to contact him with any questions.

22 21. In response to RNC's cease and desist letter of February 11, 2008,
23 CafePress made several attempts, by both email and fax, to contact RNC to discuss
24 its contentions. When RNC did not respond to these inquiries, CafePress responded
25 by letter dated March 7, 2008, asserting that both First Amendment and trademark
26 laws protect the use of both the symbol of the elephant and the acronym "GOP" as 27 part of political speech about the Republican Party, and urging that RNC discuss 28 the matter with CafePress. A copy of this letter is attached as Exhibit C.

1 22. On March 11, 2008, RNC responded to CafePress' letter by reasserting
2 RNC's trademark rights, and threatening to seek treble damages, but without 3 responding to CafePress' First Amendment and trademark concerns. A copy of this
4 letter is attached as Exhibit D.

5 23. On April 2, 2008, CafePress responded to RNC's March 11, 2008,
6 letter, reasserting CafePress' defenses under both the First Amendment and 7 trademark law as construed in light of First Amendment protections for non-
8 commercial speech, citing cases upholding these arguments, and urging RNC to 9 discuss these concerns to determine whether the parties could reach a compromise.
10 A copy of this letter is attached as Exhibit E.

11 24. On May 8, 2008, RNC responded with a letter rejecting CafePress'
12 arguments on the ground that CafePress is a for profit entity that sells t-shirts and 13 other merchandise, concluding that its uses of the trademarks are, at most,
14 commercial speech and hence unprotected. The letter asserted that the uses of 15 CafePress users infringe and dilute RNC's trademarks, and again threatened treble
16 damages in light of CafePress' continued support for its users' uses in the face of 17 "several notices from the RNC." A copy of this letter is attached as Exhibit F.

18 25. On June 27, 2008, CafePress contacted RNC to discuss its complaints
19 one last time; however the RNC refused to respond. As of the filing date of this 20 Complaint there have been no further discussions between the parties, and the 21 RNC's threat looms over CafePress' business and that of its users.

22 26. CafePress does not want to undergo the risk of being subjected to 23 further claims for damages, and requests that the Court declare that CafePress is 24 entitled to display and permit its users to sell items bearing those images.
25

CLAIM FOR DECLARATION OF NO
TRADEMARK INFRINGEMENT OR DILUTION

27. CafePress hereby incorporates by reference the statements and allegations contained in Paragraphs 1-26 as if fully stated herein.

28. Based on the allegations described above and RNC's claims for damages, CafePress has a reasonable apprehension of being sued for trademark infringement, dilution and related claims by RNC for its and its users' fair use of the acronym "GOP" and/or various elephant designs in a non-trademark descriptive and ornamental manner.

29. CafePress now seeks a declaratory judgment from this Court that the use of the acronym "GOP" and/or various elephant designs on apparel, mugs, signs, posters, stickers, buttons, cards, prints and other expressive mediums on CafePress' website does not infringe, dilute, is not likely to dilute any trademark rights that RNC may have in the acronym "GOP" or the elephant design and such use does not violate any other rights of RNC, and does not damage RNC in any way.

30. CafePress now seeks a declaratory judgment that it and its users have neither infringed, nor diluted RNC's trademarks, and that it is not in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1114, nor of 15 U.S.C. §§ 1125(a) or (c) nor of any similar state law, or any law whose violation RNC may assert through counterclaims.

31. CafePress now seeks a declaratory judgment that the elephant and the acronym "GOP" are generic terms that refer to individual Republicans, Republican groups, and Republican principles, and not specifically to RNC.

32. CafePress now seeks a declaratory judgment that any claims that it may have violated federal or state trademark laws are barred by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution, and by principles of fair use, including nominative fair use and parody under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1115(b)(4) and 1115(c)(3)(A), and ornamental use. Specifically, CafePress users are not using the

1 designs of elephants or the term "GOP" as trademarks or otherwise as an indicator
2 of source.

4 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

5 WHEREFORE, CafePress prays that with respect to its claim, that this Court
6 enter a Declaratory Judgment against RNC as follows:

7 1. Adjudging that the use of the terms "GOP" or "Grand Old Party" on 8 t-shirts and other products featured, advertised, offered for sale, or sold on 9 CafePress' website does not infringe any trademark or other rights that RNC may 10 have in the term "GOP."

11 2. Adjudging that the use of the designs of elephants on t-shirts and other
12 products featured, advertised, offered for sale, or sold on CafePress' website does 13 not violate any trademark or other rights of RNC;

14 3. Adjudging that CafePress has not caused RNC damage in any way by 15 the use of the terms "GOP" or "Grand Old Party" on t-shirts and other products
16 featured, advertised, offered for sale, or sold on CafePress' website;

17 4. Adjudging that CafePress has not caused RNC damage in any way by 18 the use of the designs of elephants on t-shirts and other products featured,
19 advertised, offered for sale, or sold on CafePress' website.

20 5. Ordering that RNC and its partners, agents, members, licensees,
21 companies which it owns and their subsidiaries, officers, agents, directors, servants,
22 employees, partners, representatives, licensees, related companies, assigns, and 23 attorneys, and all persons in active concert or participation with RNC or with any of 24 the foregoing be enjoined from asserting RNC's alleged trademark rights in the 25 terms "GOP" or "Grand Old Party", and in the elephant designs against CafePress 26 or its users.

27 6. Granting an award of CafePress' costs, expenses, and reasonable 28 attorneys' fees.

- 1 7. Granting an award of pre-judgment interest.
2 8. Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and 3 proper.

Dear Madam:

It has been brought to my attention that vendors of CafePress.com are utilizing registered trademarks of the Republican National Committee ("RNC") without the permission of the RNC, please see attached. The RNC owns the trademarks for "GOP" (Federal Trademark Registration 2110224), "Grand Old Party" (Federal Trademark Registration 2020179), "Republican National Committee" (Federal Trademark Registration 1975707), "RNC" (Federal Trademark Registration 2486855), and the Official Elephant Logo (Federal Trademark Registration 1908397) and takes infringements upon its trademarks seriously. Please cease and desist from allowing vendors to utilize the federally registered trademarks of the RNC or we will be forced to consider a legal remedy.

I trust you understand the need and the right of the RNC to protect its ownership over its trademarks. Further, I trust that you appreciate the campaign finance law implications for your organization should an association be perceived between your organization and the RNC.

Thank you for your anticipated cooperation and immediate attention to this matter. Please contact me if you have questions.

Sincerely,

Re: Your February 11, 2008 Notification of Trademark Infringement

Dear Mr. Cairncross,

Thank you for your February 11, 2008 notification regarding the possible infringement of the Republican National Committee's trademark rights by users of our service.

We have attempted to contact you via email on two separate occasions to coordinate a time for a conference call to discuss this matter, but our requests to schedule a time for such a call have gone unanswered. It continues to be our sincere desire to discuss this matter with the RNC so that we can better understand your concerns.

While we have carefully examined the document attached to your February 11, 2008 letter, which lists the URLs of product pages on our website, we strongly believe that before we can take any action with respect to your demands, we need to better understand what exactly it is you deem objectionable about certain user content appearing on CafePress. The trademarks you claim are infringed include well known political symbols, including the "elephant" logo and the acronym "GOP." The First Amendment confers a certain measure of protection for the unauthorized use of trademarks when that use is a part of the expression of a communicative message. This is particularly true when that communicative message is political in nature, given the long standing and well established historical protections afforded political speech. Speech conveyed through the use of a message on apparel items has long been held to be protected speech under the First Amendment, and apparel items have also been held to be permissible avenues for parodies, regardless of whether or not they are sold for a profit.

In short, given the above, without having a better understanding of the types of uses you deem objectionable, it is difficult for us to adequately and fully address your demands.

Please contact us at your earliest convenience to schedule a time to discuss this matter via telephone. Otherwise we will consider this matter closed unless we hear further from you.

Best regards,

Dan Pontes

Re: Second Notice of Trademark Infringement

Dear Mr. Pontes:

I write in response to your March 7 letter in which you express confusion over the Republican National Committee's ("RNC") February 11, 2008 written cease and desist demand to CafePress.com over its continued and on-going unauthorized use of federally registered RNC trademarks. CafePress.com's unauthorized use of this RNC trademarked material is not a Constitutional issue, it is trademark infringement. Federal law regarding trademarks, including the penalties that attach to trademark infringements, is both longstanding and abundantly clear. See 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1117 (2006). This letter constitutes a second demand from the RNC to CafePress.com to cease and desist its unauthorized use of RNC federally registered trademarks. This demand includes, but is not limited to, the trademarks described in my February 11, 2008 letter to CafePress.com.

I am hopeful that further action to defend our trademarked material will not be necessary. Notably, federal law imposes treble damages for willful unauthorized use of federally registered trademarks. Thank you again for your anticipated cooperation and immediate attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

RE: RNC Allegations of Trademark Infringement

Dear Mr. Cairncross,

CafePress.com, Inc. ("CafePress") is in receipt of your letter dated March 11, 2008 regarding the Republican National Committee's ("RNC") objection to content created by users of the CafePress service. Please note that although your letter was dated March 11, 2008 we did not receive the letter until March 18, 2008.

As a preliminary matter, CafePress has offered numerous times to discuss this matter with the RNC in order to attempt to reach a compromise that would be acceptable to both the RNC and CafePress. However, to date, the RNC has refused to participate in such discussions and continues to make blanket and overreaching demands of CafePress under the guise of trademark infringement allegations. Trademark rights do not entitle an owner to quash unauthorized use of the mark by another who is communicating ideas or expressing points of view, especially when the ideas and views being communicated are of a political nature.

CafePress is a platform for passionate people to express themselves freely, and the content and merchandise they create are forms of creative self-expression. Whether it is a buyer who uses an expressive medium, such as a T-shirt or a poster, to communicate his views and opinions, or a seller who chooses to disseminate his opinions and views on merchandise, the users of the CafePress service convey their political and social messages through quintessential expressive mediums (e.g., T-shirts, posters, yard signs, buttons, and stickers).

In your March 11, 2008 letter you claim that the RNC's objection to our users' content "is not a Constitutional issue, it is trademark infringement." Contrary to your claim, "[t]he freedom to engage in political speech lies at the core of the First Amendment because the First Amendment reflects a profound national commitment to the principle that debate on public issues should be uninhibited, robust, and wide-open." Moreover, "when an individual engages in political speech through the display of [yard] signs...the 'speaker' employs a venerable means of communication that is both unique and important." "Thus, both the subject matter and medium of speech represented by...political signs are recognized as integral components of every citizen's First Amendment freedoms." See McFadden v. City of Bridgeport, 422 F. Supp.2d 659, 670-671. Further, "there is no question...that T-shirts are a medium of expression prima facie protected by the free-speech clause of the First Amendment, and they do not lose their protection by being sold rather than given away." See Ayres v. City of Chicago, 125 F.3d 1010, 1015.

"Whatever differences may exist about interpretations of the First Amendment, there is practically universal agreement that a major purpose of that Amendment was to protect the free discussion of governmental affairs. This of course includes discussions of candidates, structures and forms of government, the manner in which government is operated or should be operated, and all such matters relating to political processes." See Mills v. State of Alabama, 384 U.S. 214, 218-219. To argue that the use of symbols, such as an elephant, or terms, such as "GOP," to express support or criticism for Republicans and/or the Republican Party is trademark infringement is to argue that trademark law trumps the constitutional right of free expression deeply rooted in our nation's democracy.

Accordingly, the RNC's objection to our users' content is clearly a "Constitutional" issue. The existing case law recognizes that the use of marks in certain forms of artistic and expressive speech is protected by the First Amendment. If speech is not "purely commercial"—that is, if it does more than propose a commercial transaction—then it is entitled to full First Amendment protection. Trademark law protects source identifying use of a trademark, however, when a trademark is imbued with expressive value and a meaning outside the bounds of source identification the mark assumes a role outside the bounds of trademark law. Were we to ignore the expressive value that some marks assume, trademark rights would grow to encroach upon the zone protected by the First Amendment. See Mattel, Inc. v. MCA Records, Inc. 296 F.3d 894.

For the reasons set forth above CafePress will not accede to your demands. Once again, we are more than willing to have an open dialog with the RNC to determine if there is a compromise to be had. Feel free to contact me directly if you would like to discuss this matter further.

As always, we must include the following formalities. CafePress disputes all claims and allegations of infringement, and nothing contained in this letter is intended, nor shall be construed as an admission of any wrongdoing or liability on behalf of CafePress or the users of the CafePress service. This letter is not intended, nor shall it be construed as a full statement of all the facts and circumstances relating to this matter. Nothing contained in this letter, nor any act or omission to act by CafePress is intended or should be deemed to be a waiver, abridgement, alteration, modification or reduction of any rights, claims, defenses or remedies that CafePress may have in regard to this matter and all such rights, claims defenses and remedies, whether at law or in equity, are hereby expressly reserved.

Very truly yours,

Re: Third Notice of Trademark Infringement

Dear Ms. Carr:

I write in response to your April 2 letter in which you express confusion over the Republican National Committee's ("RNC") March 11, 2008 second written cease and desist demand to CafePress.com over its continued and on-going unauthorized use of federally registered RNC trademarks. CafePress.com's unauthorized use of this RNC trademarked material is not a Constitutional issue, it is trademark infringement. Federal law regarding trademarks, including the penalties that attach to trademark infringements, is both longstanding and abundantly clear. See 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1117 (2006).

Your assertion that the objectionable actions of CafePress.com constitute political speech is wrong as a matter of law. CafePress.com is a for-profit entity. CafePress.com exists to sell its services to "individuals, organizations and businesses to create, buy and sell customized merchandise online...." Cohen, Ayres, or any other precedent you have cited do not apply. Marketing and selling tote bags, t-shirts, bumper stickers, and other merchandise is, at most, commercial speech.

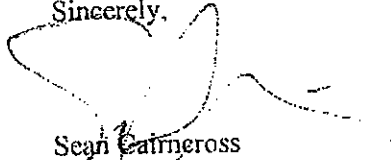

A claim that all of your commercial actions constitute parody also is wrong as a matter of law. Parody must be clear that it is parody and not protected property. The products in question are tied to commercial use, and do not qualify as parody. Your use of our property is dilutive, and your merchandise will more likely than not mislead consumers to believe that it is sponsored or endorsed by the Republican National Committee.

This letter constitutes a third demand from the RNC to CafePress.com to cease and desist its unauthorized use of RNC federally registered trademarks. This demand includes, but is not limited to, the trademarks described in my February 11, 2008 and March 11, 2008 letters to CafePress.com.

I am hopeful that further action to defend our trademarked material will not be necessary. Notably, federal law imposes treble damages for willful unauthorized use of federally registered trademarks. The fact that Cafepress.com has received several notices from the RNC, coupled with your assertion of patently inapplicable legal theory, suggests Cafepress.com's unauthorized use of RNC trademarks is willful and intentional. Thank you again for your anticipated cooperation and immediate attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Sean Cairneross

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTORNEYS COMPLETING CIVIL COVER SHEET FORM JS 44

Authority For Civil Cover Sheet

The JS 44 civil cover sheet and the information contained herein neither replaces nor supplements the filings and service of pleading or other papers as required by law, except as provided by local rules of court. This form, approved by the Judicial Conference of the United States in September 1974, is required for the use of the Clerk of Court for the purpose of initiating the civil docket sheet. Consequently, a civil cover sheet is submitted to the Clerk of Court for each civil complaint filed. The attorney filing a case should complete the form as follows:

I. (a) Plaintiffs-Defendants. Enter names (last, first, middle initial) of plaintiff and defendant. If the plaintiff or defendant is a government agency, use only the full name or standard abbreviations. If the plaintiff or defendant is an official within a government agency, identify first the agency and then the official, giving both name and title.

(b) County of Residence. For each civil case filed, except U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county where the first listed plaintiff resides at the time of filing. In U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county in which the first listed defendant resides at the time of filing. (NOTE: In land condemnation cases, the county of residence of the "defendant" is the location of the tract of land involved.)

(c) Attorneys. Enter the firm name, address, telephone number, and attorney of record. If there are several attorneys, list them on an attachment, noting in this section "(see attachment)".

II. Jurisdiction. The basis of jurisdiction is set forth under Rule 8(a), F.R.C.P., which requires that jurisdictions be shown in pleadings. Place an "X" in one of the boxes. If there is more than one basis of jurisdiction, precedence is given in the order shown below.

United States plaintiff. (1) Jurisdiction based on 28 U.S.C. 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here.

United States defendant. (2) When the plaintiff is suing the United States, its officers or agencies, place an "X" in this box.

Federal question. (3) This refers to suits under 28 U.S.C. 1331, where jurisdiction arises under the Constitution of the United States, an amendment to the Constitution, an act of Congress or a treaty of the United States. In cases where the U.S. is a party, the U.S. plaintiff or defendant code takes precedence, and box 1 or 2 should be marked.

Diversity of citizenship. (4) This refers to suits under 28 U.S.C. 1332, where parties are citizens of different states. When Box 4 is checked, the citizenship of the different parties must be checked. (See Section III below; federal question actions take precedence over diversity cases.)

III. Residence (citizenship) of Principal Parties. This section of the JS 44 is to be completed if diversity of citizenship was indicated above. Mark this section for each principal party.

IV. Nature of Suit. Place an "X" in the appropriate box. If the nature of suit cannot be determined, be sure the cause of action, in Section VI below, is sufficient to enable the deputy clerk or the statistical clerks in the Administrative Office to determine the nature of suit. If the cause fits more than one nature of suit, select the most definitive.

V. Origin. Place an "X" in one of the seven boxes.

Original Proceedings. (1) Cases which originate in the United States district courts.

Removed from State Court. (2) Proceedings initiated in state courts may be removed to the district courts under Title 28 U.S.C., Section 1441. When the petition for removal is granted, check this box.

Remanded from Appellate Court. (3) Check this box for cases remanded to the district court for further action. Use the date of remand as the filing date.

Reinstated or Reopened. (4) Check this box for cases reinstated or reopened in the district court. Use the reopening date as the filing date.

Transferred from Another District. (5) For cases transferred under Title 28 U.S.C. Section 1404(a). Do not use this for within district transfers or multidistrict litigation transfers.

Multidistrict Litigation. (6) Check this box when a multidistrict case is transferred into the district under authority of Title 28 U.S.C. Section 1407. When this box is checked, do not check (5) above.

Appeal to District Judge from Magistrate Judgment. (7) Check this box for an appeal from a magistrate judge's decision.

VI. Cause of Action. Report the civil statute directly related to the cause of action and give a brief description of the cause. Do not cite jurisdictional statutes unless diversity. Example: U.S. Civil Statute: 47 USC 553
Brief Description: Unauthorized reception of cable service

VII. Requested in Complaint. Class Action. Place an "X" in this box if you are filing a class action under Rule 23, F.R.Cv.P.

Demand. In this space enter the dollar amount (in thousands of dollars) being demanded or indicate other demand such as a preliminary injunction.

Jury Demand. Check the appropriate box to indicate whether or not a jury is being demanded.

VIII. Related Cases. This section of the JS 44 is used to reference related pending cases if any. If there are related pending cases, insert the docket numbers and the corresponding judge names for such cases.

Date and Attorney Signature. Date and sign the civil cover sheet.
